Why would I want to claim a building in Google My Business?

Tell Me

- Claiming a location allows UNC Charlotte departments and areas to manage their online information, like hours and websites, across Google, including results from searches and on Google Maps.
- It is not necessary for departments and areas to claim a building. Google will use its search information to add certain information. If your building operation times vary over semesters and the summer, departments and areas may find this useful.

Related FAQs

- Are all University employees and students required to use Duo?
- Do employees get a discount on personal computer purchases?
- How can I see events scheduled in University space?
- What Google Apps are available at UNC Charlotte?
- What's the difference between classic Google Hangouts and the Google Chat?