How can UNC Charlotte faculty, staff and graduate students find funding opportunities for their research or creative work?

Tell Me

1. Research and Economic Development's Office of Proposal Development (OPD) website lists various online databases of external funding opportunities on its Locating Funding page. Some databases must be accessed via a UNC Charlotte computer and some require a user account.
2. Also listed are internal UNC Charlotte grant programs for research (Faculty Research Grants) and teaching (Scholarship of Teaching and Learning).
3. OPD will assist you in using these resources, and will conduct specialized funding searches for UNC Charlotte faculty, staff and Ph.D. students. For more information, call 704-687-1869.

Related Articles

- How can UNC Charlotte faculty get help with writing a research grant proposal?
- How can UNC Charlotte faculty, staff and graduate students find funding opportunities for their research or creative work?