If I leave the University when does my benefit coverage end?

Medical
If you work less than half of the work days in the month of your anticipated separation, your medical coverage will expire on the last day of that month. If you work at least half of the work days in the month of your anticipated separation, your medical coverage will expire on the last day of the month following your date of separation.

NC Flex Benefits
If you work less than half of the work days in the month of your anticipated separation, your NC Flex benefits coverage will expire on the last day of the preceding month. If you at least half of the work days in the month of your anticipated separation, your NC Flex benefits coverage will expire on the last day of that month.